MARTIN STAM

Facilitator of Change / (Team) Coach

PERSONAL PROFILE

Connecting with others is what I consider to be my natural talent. Through intensive education, coaching, training and through a number of leadership trails in nature, I know exactly what I can and cannot do. And what I do and don't want. I connect with others based on authenticity, equality and integrity.

Always focused on getting the best out of myself, others and the team. Building trust is the foundation for me to achieve commitment and results.

By observing without judgment and with wonder I perceive trust and security. With a healthy dose of humor and full of energy, I am mainly focused on what works.

I believe that if there is a good balance between attention to performance and attention to people, the optimal result will be achieved.

As co-founder of Aspire Company I support, management and expert teams in improving the way they work together. I also have a coaching practice for executives.

My clients call me inspiring, a good listener, pragmatic and creative and open. Also honest, when I am required to challenge someone.
